

“Beauty is the splendor of truth,” as Aquinas says, and thus truth does not need anything from the outside to communicate itself; it has an attraction in and of itself that is sufficient, precisely because of its beauty. It seemed like an appropriate title for a book that is directed to a person’s reason and freedom, without imposing on either. The times we are living force us to recognize that we can only access truth by means of what passes through our freedom.

---

PRESENTATION OF THE BOOK

Disarming Beauty

---

Julián Carrón

President of the Fraternity of Communion and Liberation Author of Disarming Beauty

Rowan Williams
Master of Magdalene College former Archbishop of Canterbury

Friday 18th May 2018 5pm

Auditorium of Magdalene College, Cambridge followed by refreshments in the Denis Murphy Gallery